Under the present system, he said, bank stock in the hands of shareholders is the only tangible personal property in Virginia that is taxed at its full value. Reforms are needed, he said, which shall remove the discrimination against this form of investment. form of investment.

Mr. Montague designated the pres-ent taxing system as abominable, and thought the time was ripe for reform. It was time, he said, for Virginia to stop boasting of its glorious past and of its achievements in history, and to give attention to a tax situation which is among the four worst among the States of the Union.

Discussion of Report. The discussion on the floor began as soon as the report had been read, some of the commissioners referring to the statement as a much desired expres-sion of the belief of the church, and others affirming that if it were adopted it would prove dangerous rather than helpful, and that it would be considered in the light of a com-promise of the teachings of the Pres-byterian Church as contained in the Confession of Faith. The discussion continued until the close of the morning session, and the hour for taking recess having arrived, it was ordered that the discussion be continued immediately upon the opening of the af-

Spirited Discussion.

Answering a number of overtures from different presbyteries that the former powers of the permanent com-mittee on systematic beneficence be restored, that of another presbytery that these powers be defined, the standing committee made the following recommendation, which precipitated an immediate spirited discussion:

"It shall be the duty of this com-mittee to study with care the work of all the assembly's executive committees, and to do all that can by recom mendations to the assembly to co-or dinate, unify and advance the work so as to bring that work to the very highest state of efficiency and unity. Oppose Adoption.

Rev. W. M. McPheeters, of Columbia, and Rev. R. F. Campbell, of Asheville, opposed the adoption of the report, the church and state. The scriptual form of church government is by elders or presbyters, chosen by the members, of the church; but we do not regard the form of government of a church as essential to its existence. We recognize the validity of the ministry and sacraments of all evangelical churches, and seek the unity of the Spirit in the bonds of peace.
